THE DEATH RECORD.

William Forney, Harry Speece, William Fulton, Mrs. Mahala Wemmer, John A. Dasher, Miss Mary Beckley.

William Forney, whose death we mentioned last week, was born near Hanover on Jan. 17, 1830, and died at his home in Snake Spring township on Jan. 28, 1903, aged 73 years, eight months and eleven days. He was a son of Matthias and Elizabeth Forney, deceased. He had eight brothers and sisters, three of whom are still living—Mrs. Margaret Rounton, of Hanover; Emanuel, of Carroll county, Md., and Mary Ana, of Wadsworth, Ark. In early boyhood he moved to Morrison's Cove and from there to Snake Spring township, where he resided until a substantial exhibition buildings. At Tuesday's was one of the most largely attended meetings the association has held for many years and a great deal of interest was taken in the proceedings. The society is better condition than ever before, having a surplus in the treasury.

It is not too early to discuss plans for the county fair. Some sterling attractions should be secured and the sooner this is done the wider the choice will be. We want the fair of 1903 to be a record-breaker.

ANNUAL MEETING

Of the Bedford County Agricultural Society—Officers Elected.

At its annual meeting on Tuesday the Bedford County Agricultural society elected the following officers: President, Frank P. Gephart; vice-president, Jacob Burnhart; George W. Williams, S. W. K. year, Dr. E. J. Miller, C. W. S. Stuckey, George W. O. Dr. Directors, S. H. Gump, Dr. C. W. Lutz, James Cribby, Sr., Samuel S. Stuckey, W. S. Arnold, H. K. Herschberger, Jacob Bowser, S. S. Diehl; recording secretary, William E. R. Hines; treasurer, J. Scott Corle. The stockholders authorized the directors to borrow money to erect substantial exhibition buildings.

BORROWED BRIEFS.

Items of Interest Clipped From Our Exchanges.

Pat Dorn, of Ohio, died on January 17 and was buried at Katie Dunn, of Dudley, ten thousand dollars—Dudley News.

Death of a Little Girl. The six-month-old daughter of Mr. William E. Elliott, Cumberland Valley, died yesterday. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon—Tuesday's Cumberland Times.

William C. Neum. William C. Neum, a brother of Simon Neum, North Centre street, died January 28 at Newport News, Va., aged about 30 years. Mr. Neum was inspector of ship timber and superintendent of night missions at Newport News. He was an excellent singer and used to teach vocal music. Some years ago he conducted singing schools in Cumberland and Valley, Pa., and at Centenary, Pleasant Grove and Fairview, in this country. He was a native of near Cleveland, Bedford County, Pa.—Cumberland News.

Jacob Tipton.

Jacob Tipton, a highly esteemed resident of Allegheny township, passed away Monday, January 19, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George Lafferty, at the advanced age of 83 years. He is survived by the following children: N. C. Tipton and Mrs. James Brown, of Bedford county; James Tipton, of Dividing Ridge; Mrs. George Lafferty and Mrs. James Lafferty, of Glen Savage, and Mrs. Theodore Cook, of Bedford—Somerset Herald.

Worthy Candidates.

Every candidate on the Democratic ticket of Bedford borough is worthy of the support of all citizens who are in favor of clean municipal government and the upbuilding of the town. The nominees for burgess and councilmen are men who have the welfare of the borough at heart; they are progressive, level-headed and public-spirited and may be trusted to do all in their power to advance the interests of the town. The men named for school directors are well qualified to fill that position. They are intelligent, broad-minded and thoroughly understand the needs of the schools. If elected they will see that the Bedford schools are kept in the front rank of the educational institutions of their kind. Every other candidate on the ticket is competent to fill the office for which he has been named in a highly creditable manner and each one deserves the votes of his fellow-citizens.

Drank Poison Instead of Medicine.

Monday night Miss E. E. Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Smith, drank some carbonic acid, medicine and alcohol in mistake for medicine. D. H. Strook and W. F. Eadie were summoned. An emetic administered by the physicians did not help the patient and they were compelled to use the stomach pump to relieve the patient. Miss Smith has about recovered from the effects of the poison mixture which she drank. The concoction had been prepared for use on Mr. Smith's hand, through which he ran a nail some time ago.

John A. Dasher.

John A. Dasher, a native of Bedford county, died at his home in Altoona on Wednesday, aged 74 years, four months and seven days. He was employed as a blacksmith in the P. E. R. R. at Altoona, for many years. His wife and three children survive him. He served his country in the 125th Regt., Pennsylvania volunteers.

Mrs. Mahala Wemmer.

Mrs. Mahala Wemmer died at the home of her son, G. W. Canard, in Everett, on January 28, aged 83 years, one month and 22 days. The deceased was a daughter of the late Rev. John Speece. She was married twice—first to Henry Cundiff, who died in 1849, and afterward to James Wemmer, who passed away many years ago.

John A. Dasher.

John A. Dasher, a native of Bedford county, died at his home in Altoona on Wednesday, aged 74 years, four months and seven days. He was employed as a blacksmith in the P. E. R. R. at Altoona, for many years. His wife and three children survive him. He served his country in the 125th Regt., Pennsylvania volunteers.

Miss Mary Beckley.

Miss Mary Beckley, youngest daughter of Charles and Jessie Harcourt Beckley, of Scal Lvl., died on January 31, of diphtheria. The body was taken to Pleasantville on Sunday for interment.

J. W. Madore Promoted.

J. W. Madore, the B. & O. railroad agent here, has resigned his position to take effect today. Mr. Madore, the former efficient agent, Mr. Wimans will engage in business for himself in Uniontown. The many friends here of Mr. Madore are pleased to learn that his pleasant smile and accommodating ways will or, more grace the B. & O. office—Uniontown News Standard.

Mr. Max is a son of J. W. Madore, of Bedford, and a brother of Attorney F. Madore, of Bedford.

B. A. A. Officers.

Friday evening Hon. E. S. Doty was re-elected president of the Bedford Athletic association and J. F. Harclerode, vice president. Attorney H. B. Tracy was selected secretary-treasurer; Prof. D. C. Shunkard, Abe G. H. and W. F. White, trustees; Percy Middleton, Clyde Cessna and Charles Crosson, executive committee; William Beam, collector. Several new members have been received and more interest than usual is being taken in the organization.

Dent-shoemaker.

At the B. & O. railroad agent's office, on January 29 Joseph Grant, D. H. of Cheshire, and Miss Nellie Barnes, a sister of Bedford, were joined in wedlock by Rev. Irvin W. Hendricks.

HARRISBURG LETTER.

What the Pennsylvania Legislators Are Doing.

SOME IMPORTANT BILLS.

Legislative Apportionment—Trivial Cases—The Altona Times—School Teachers.

Special Correspondence of THE GAZETTE.

HARRISBURG, February 3.—One of the most important measures at this session is the legislative apportionment bill. According to the express provisions of the State Constitution a new apportionment shall be made at the first session of the general assembly after each United States decennial census. Our law makers seem to have paid little attention to this express provision, for no legislative apportionment bill has been passed since the adoption of the Constitution in 1787.

Governor Pennypacker is fulsomely.

of his pledges demands that one shall be presented at this session, and upon the failure of any member to do so he would prepare one himself. In order to frustrate the governor, Robert McWhinney, of Allegheny county, presented a bill for the re-apportionment of the state into legislative districts. This bill, however, is not likely to pass, for the reason that Allegheny county goes a larger proportionate increase than does Philadelphia and some of the country districts are reduced. Under the terms of this bill Bedford county would get one member. Philadelphia seems jealous of its power and will not permit anything to pass that will in any way lessen her grip on state affairs. She now has the governor, speaker of the house, president pro-tem of the senate, attorney general, insurance commissioner and control of most of the committees. The cities at the two extremes of the state have absolute control and country members can play but a small part in the enactment of laws for the state, and therefore will resent any restriction of the little influence they now possess.

The bill for the erection of a monument to General Lee on the battlefield of Gettysburg is likely never to see daylight again. The universal sentiment seems to be against the measure.

Another measure seems to call forth much discussion, and that is an appropriation for a monument to Sam Cameron on the capital grounds. Many of the members are opposed to the erection of a monument to any person, as they do not want the grounds turned into a cemetery. Many more think that the life, character and services rendered by the state by Sam Cameron were not such as to take precedence of very many of our distinguished soldiers—but, if the decree has gone forth, the monument will be erected, independent of sentiment or feeling.

A time o'clock the wedding supper was announced, when all proceeded to the dining-room, where a splendid repast was served, to which the merry assembly did ample justice. The table was decorated with white lilies, carnations, pink and white roses, with a small border, making under the brilliant electric lights in the dining-hall, a scene of rare beauty long to be remembered by the twenty-four guests present. At the conclusion of the feast the Hyndman Concert band appeared in front of the premises and tendered the bride and groom a serenade. The bride and groom received a hearty round of applause.

BOIES PENROSE'S BILL.
The irrepressible Boies Penrose, U.S. Senator from Pennsylvania, is the father of a bill for the purchase of 5,000 copies of "March's Thesaurus" at the rate of $10 a copy, to be distributed among the departments and offices throughout the country "to enable officers and employees of the government to find the proper words to express their meaning."

It is strange the senator should think such a book was needed, especially by those officials who are in the classified service, for they have "survived" a competitive examination and must have proven that they have a vocabulary sufficient to express themselves intelligently. An exchange copy suggests that if there be any need of a thesaurus by persons who are not engaged in literary work, but whose reports concern only sever matters of fact, it must be among the officers and employees who owe their appointment to political influence. Our contemporary thinks that the introduction of a book of words into the public offices would give to the officials an impression that they should strive to acquire a literary style and thus truth and clearness would likely be sacrificed in order to make a fine sentence. Senator Penrose's bill seems to indicate that there are a great many government officials who "got there" through political pulls and not because of their ability to fill the positions to which they have been appointed. If they are thoroughly competent to perform the duties of their offices they surely ought to be able to make their reports without the aid of "March's Thesaurus." If they cannot get along without a lexicon there are many, and good ones, that can be obtained in any first-class book store, and why the government should supply these books to the officials is hard to realize. The liberal Philadelphia politician may intend to give his friends a whole library, of which this dictionary of words is to be the foundation. The Philadelphia Record thinks the $30,000 the books would cost would bring better results if schoolmasters were placed in the federal buildings instead of 5,000 copies of "March's Thesaurus."

The Brooklyn Eagle

forceful and fear-

less papers of the

has the cheerful habit of calling a spade a spade and of bawing to the line no matter where the chips may fly.

This New York journal frequently goes beyond the boundary of its own state when in search of a subject for an erudit editorial. The other day our contemporary picked up enough material in Pennsylvania for an article—and this is how it presented the pointers it received in the Keystone state to its readers:

"Quay successful candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, ex-Judge Pennypacker, was installed yesterday, and his inaugural message seems to have been on a par with his remarkable campaign oration of his political master and his original defense of the ripper, boodle and franchise-grab measures."

"Without endorsing his predecessor's views as to the necessity and propriety of compulsory arbitration, Governor Pennypacker declares that there is no good to the state from the mere accumulation of unused resources in the hands of an individual." Would he limit accumulation? Does he distinguish between wealth honestly, lawfully and justly acquired and wealth obtained through fraud and extortion and abuse of improper privileges? No; he declares that the state is interested in bringing about a condition of things in which, in the distribution of rewards resulting from business ventures, capital shall have less profit and labor more compensation."

"Now, what does this language mean, especially on the lips of a man who saw nothing wrong in the ripper and boodle measures which outraged and shocked the whole nation? The man who excuses robbery of the public can hardly be taken seriously when he proposes a policy limiting the profits of capital even in competitive industry."

"The governor 'regrets' that so much of the wealth produced in Pennsylvania is utilized elsewhere and refers to 'libraries in England and universities in Chicago erected from the outcome of the iron and oil' of his state. But he does not advocate prohibition of gifts to libraries and universities outside of Pennsylvania by those who get rich out of that state's industries, and this censure is reasonable."

"Finally, Mr. Pennypacker resents 'attacks upon individuals' (Quay, for example) by the sensational press, and proposes the extension of the law of negligence to such cases." What is the matter with the law of libel? Another rich suggestion is the propriety of requiring the names and residences of the owners of newspapers to be published with each issue. The judge does not seem to know that there is not the least difficulty in identifying owners and publishers of newspapers and holding them to a strict responsibility."

"Mr. Pennypacker may be a good man but he is not very brilliant or penetrating."

Pearls Becoming Scarce

It is reported that a famine of pearls has set in due to the large demand for these lovely gems. It is claimed that other stones are so becoming to youth and beauty, but the majority of people throughout the country are not able to purchase these costly gems. However, as long as they enjoy good health they are far richer and will always look better than if they possessed all the pearls in the world. If you have lost the precious possession—health—you should try Hoffer's Stomach Bitters because it is recognized as the best health marker in existence. It will cure headaches, nervousness, indigestion, Liver and Kidney troubles and Maria, fever and ague. Our Private Stamp is over the neck of the bottle.

THE CHURCH AT CORINTH FOUND.
EPIPHANY.—
GOLDEN TRUST.—Other foundations can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ. I Cor. 3:11.

Leaving Athens, Paul next went to Corinth. There he met a Jew of the name of Aquila, a native of Pootus, who, with his wife, Priscilla, had lately come from Italy, in consequence of the order which had been issued by the Emperor Claudius for all Jews to leave Rome. Paul paid them a visit and since their trade was the same he stayed and worked with them. Their trade was tent-making. Even Sabbath Paul gave audience in the synagogue, persuading both Jews and Greeks.

But when Silas and Timothy had come down from Macedonia, Paul devoted himself entirely to delivering the message, earnestly maintaining before the Jews that Jesus was the Christ. However, as they set themselves against him and became abusive, Paul shook his clothes in protest, and said to them:

"Your blood must be on your own heads, I am clear of it. After this I shall go to the heathen."

So he left and went to the house of certain Titus Justus, a man who joined in the worship of God, and whose house was next door to the synagogue. Crispus, the president of the synagogue, came to believe in the Master, and so did all his household; and many of the Corinthians, as they listened to Paul, believed him and were baptized. One night the Master said to Paul, in a vision:

"Do not be afraid; continue to speak and refuse to be silent; for I am with you, and no attack shall prevail in any city to you, for I have many people in this city."

So he settled there for a year and a half, teaching God's message among the people.

During Gallio's governorship of Greece the Jews made a combined attack on Paul and brought him before the governor's bench, with the complaint that he was persuading the people to worship God in a way forbidden by the law. Just as Paul was on the point of speaking Gallio said to the Jews:

"From grave to grave, from lively to severe." Though oral is high, it is not coal alone, for it appears as if every thing else has gone up with it; but strange as it may seem, in the midst of all our suffering and sorrow New York must have its amusements.

You can find in the Bowery theatres a dozen different languages, even the Yiddish Russian, which is the lowest type of civilized humanity. He must have his eye to the theatre at least once a week.

Starvation gleams from his eyes; he is always hungry; misery is his normal condition and he looks as though he yet fed; that is to say, as far as such a creature can enjoy anything. His laugh is like the howl of a hungry hyena. Singular as it may appear, rati or shini, there are no slim houses in the Yiddish quarter. He must be hard to please who cannot find something to his taste among the Greater New York theatres.

The amusements of the American people cost more than the government of the United States. Jesus de Reszki receives more hard cash for a performance lasting a couple of hours than the president of the United States receives for the labor of an entire week. In rendering German or Italian opera with first class performers it frequently costs $10,000 to raise the curtain. Good shows have been particularly abundant during the week just passed, "Mr. Blue Beard," with a stunning London company, leading the way as a literary production it is beneath criticism, but as a brilliant spectacle it surpasses in splendor and magnificence any show ever produced in this city. The management must have put pretty well assured of its success before laying out thousands of dollars in its production.

On the first night "Mr. Blue Beard," that was the title, was produced to a crowded house. It was a success from start to finish. At times it seemed as if hundreds of beautiful blondes were on the stage, and they set the Johnnies wild with pleasure. The management must have got into the act of the play.

There is no salvation in any other name than Jesus; for there is none other name given under heaven among men whereby we must be saved

America's Bed for 1903.

We have just read of it, and believe it is a fine thing. Everyone in this country needs something attractive and beautiful on their lawn or in their garden. Mr. James Vick, formerly of Rochester, N. Y., says he is anxious to see how many persons in the United States can excel him in perfecting this bed.

The plants required are Salvia Bonfire, White Virea and the new Agave. No combination could be finer or more brilliant.

The plants for the bed will cost from $2.75 to $3., but you can secure seeds from which to grow these plants for nothing, if you simply cut out this notice and return it to D. Lyndhurst Scott, Philadelphia, Pa., with a cash order for $1 or more. Send at once for their new catalogue, containing full directions and illustrations of this wonderful America's Bed for 1903.

THE OCCULT IN THE HEALING ART:

A Discussion of Faith, or Divine Healing, and Cognate Questions.

The following is a synopsis of a paper read before the Medical Society, convened at Shelby, O., December 22, 1899, by Rev. John V. Potts:

Special Correspondence of THE GAZETTE.
NEW YORK, February 3.—While sitting at my desk last week I thought I felt a sensible vibration in the atmosphere around me. It was only for a second, but it was a living fact nevertheless. I looked out of my window and saw people hurrying from their houses trembling with fear, for the action was like that which preceded an earthquake I experienced many years ago. On inquiry it proved to be the report of the newly invented monster cannon, the efficiency and power of which are now being tested at the government's proving grounds, near Sandy Hook, and if the trial is satisfactory several more will be ordered for the forces of New York harbor and other cities along our coast, and when these monsters are mounted and are trained on every possible point of offense any foreign foe, intending to make the passage, had better pipe all hands to quarters for fifteen minutes of silent prayer, as it may possibly be the last chance they may ever have of sending a projectile to the throne of grace, even though aimed by Marconi's wireless telegraph, with a length of fifty feet and the capacity of sending a shell weighing a ton and a quarter, loaded with terrible explosives, ten miles, and dropping it down in the midst of a crowded city. The laboratory of nature is being absurdly opened and compelled to yield its curative elements for the help of man and beast. The hidden recesses of forest, field, rock, ocean and air are searched with the most scrutinizing care, in order that they may pay tribute to the life, longevity and happiness of man.

But no historic age has charlatanism, quackery, deceit, fraud and imposition been so rampant as in this century. Empiricism is found in every school of medicine. The pretenders to medical skill are flooding the country with patent nostrums of the most infamous character. Conscienceless greed with the most acute uses of chemistry adulterates food, drink and medicines by wholesale and retail. If any doubt this let him read the report of the dairy and food commission.

It has an extreme reach of twenty miles, and even at that distance it may prove to be a very uncomfortable neighbor and an exceedingly dangerous foe.

On the trial it was found to be perfect in every particular, fitting the government's severest specifications.

It cost $100,000, and being satisfactory, it will be purchased by the government and at the earliest possible moment will be mounted and put in commission, when, it is said, an order will be issued by the war department strictly forbidding its use for pleasure parties or for shooting ducks.

"From grave to grave, from lively to severe." Though oral is high, it is not coal alone, for it appears as if every thing else has gone up with it; but strange as it may seem, in the midst of all our suffering and sorrow New York must have its amusements.

OUR ASSISTANT EDITORS.

Weekly Letters from our Wide Awake Correspondents
New Paris.

FEBRUARY 8.—The groundhog could see his shadow in this vicinity yesterday, which means six weeks more of wintry weather. The well known assessor of Napier township, C. W. Blackburn, is now in our locality attending to the duties of that office.

E. R. Mick's had not been able to get his grocery for some time on account of renumeration. He has sold his outfit of hardware tools to George E. McMillen, who is located in what was formerly W. I. Taylor's meat shop.

During Rev. W. E. Frederick's regular meeting at the place there were over twenty-five conversions. The membership of his church has been very much increased.

Rev. Mr. Wilt is still continuing his meeting at Oak Shade. At the time of this writing thirty-eight persons have been born under imploring God's mercy.

George Donald, an infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert P. Pease, died on January 31, aged 20 days. Interment was made in the Evangelical cemetery Sunday morning. Services were conducted by Rev. M. L. Wilt. These young ladies acted as pallbearers of this little one: Vinnie Rose, Bertha Hesse, Ottie, Ruth Stedler and Bertha Shoenthaler.

Frances Margaret, an infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kline, died January 31, aged 22 days. Its little form was laid to rest in the Evangelical cemetery on Monday. The services were conducted by Rev. W. E. Pease.

Ottawa.—The ground hog saw his shadow. What does it mean?

Mr. Lizzie England is seriously ill.

The enterprising citizens of this section are working for a rural free delivery to start at Everett and extend through a portion of the county.

Daniel Neiss has moved his saw-mill from the Wolf tract to a large tract of timber near Klineville.

Mary R. Dot, who has been in the "Smoky Mountains" for several months, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Diehl.

Mrs. C. M. Ott is convalescent.

Robert Beegle and wife, of Roaring Spring, are visiting Mr. Beegle's parents. Mr. and Mrs. William Wolf. Mr. and Mrs. Beegle expect to take up their abode in Cumberland next week. They have already shipped their effects.

The popular belief is that Friend's Cove can lead the world in parties. It is possible to have ten in one week and then omit Sunday night for prayer meeting.

PARKER JACK.

Riot.

FEBRUARY 2.—Yes, the ground hog will see his shadow today. Now for six weeks of rough weather.

S. G. Neff, of near Bedford, is spending some time with his daughter, Mrs. C. P. Blackburn.

W. V. Darr, who has been sick all winter, is better.

Rev. Martin Wilt is holding an interesting revival meeting at this place. There have been 22 conversions and twelve souls seeking. This is the fourth revival service Rev. Wilt has held this winter and at each one quite a number were converted.

Rev. Collins of the M. E. church of Alum Bank, preached an able sermon in the church at this place Sunday afternoon.

Miss Minnie Rock, who had been visiting at Wooster for some time, has returned to her home.

W. E. Pease.

POLIT.

FEBRUARY 3.—John Smith, of near Liverpool, will move into the tenant house of Samuel S. Stuey at Napier on Wednesday.

Mrs. Jeanie Mickey and two daughters are visiting the family of George Mickey and other friends near Alton, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Allen and daughter of Cesena, were welcome guests at our sacrum on Sunday.

But very little ice has been put away in this community and if the weather foretold by Mr. Bicks proves true it will be a scarce article here this winter.

Last week Williams Bros. were breaking corn and threshing fodder for the farmers in the vicinity of Napier.

Some of our candidates for the township offices are hosting around looking up their friends.

ROCKEN.

Kainsburg.

FEBRUARY 3.—Mrs. R. Smith, who has been sick for some time, is very low. John Lewis is also getting weaker.

A crowd of young querry makers met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cesena last week and spent the evening very pleasantly and all joined heartily in the fun—play and singing—after which a fine supper was served by Mr. and Mrs. Cesena. All report a happy and enjoyable time.

Charlesville.

FEBRUARY 3.—Wilmer House, who had been at home on a vacation, has returned to Johnstown to resume work. His parents expect to move there in the spring.

S. J. Marting has returned from Pittsburgh. He says his son Ligouri, who is sick, is improving.

Samuel Feathers is seriously ill.

In Memoriam.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Wilson, Wilkinsburg, was made sad and desolate on January 20 by the sudden death of their only child. Robert was about 9½ years old, and in his life many fond hopes were centered for he gave promise of becoming a good and helpful man. He was bright and studious beyond his years, always neat and orderly in his manners, and a general favorite. Though always a delicate lad, he was cheerful and good natured and brought much sunshine into the lives of his parents and friends.

He was a faithful member of Trinity Reformed Sunday school and already gave evidence of his love for the Lord Jesus Christ. On the morning of January 20 he kissed his mother goodby, as was his custom, and ran off to school. In the school room he was suddenly seized with convulsions. Physicians were summoned, who pronounced the dread disease to be cerebro-spinal meningitis. He was later removed to the home of his parents, where he steadily sank until death ended his suffering. For him it was merely a transition to a better world where there shall be no more pain.

Many friends gathered with the stricken parents on the evening of the 21st, when Rev. Paul S. Leibach, pastor of Trinity church, conducted a brief service. The remains were then removed to Bedford county for interment, where further services were conducted by Rev. H. F. Bassman, of Cesena. The parents can be truly consoled by the faith that Robert is safe at home with Jesus, and by the hope that some day there shall be a blessed reunion of those who have passed through great tribulation and waited their robes white in the blood of the Lamb. May little Robert rest in peace until the day of resurrection.
